BY R. H. STODBARD. The soft rays of the Autumn sun Fell goldenly on land and wave, Touching with hely light the grave That holds the dust of Washington.

A secred Presence broaded round, A halo of divinest flame; The memory of the mighty Name That makes Mount Vernon hallowed ground.

A stately silent group was there— The nation's Ruler, crowned with years, And England's Prince smid his peers, Uncovered in the reverent air!

Beneath the old ancestral trees
They walked together, side by side,
In sun and shadow, close-allied,
Linked in the happy bands of Peace.

Two friendly nations met in them.
Two mighty nations, one of old.
Cast in the same gigantic moold
Shoots from the sturdy Saxon stem.

They gathered round his holy dust, The wisest of the many wise That shaped our early destinies, And fought our battles, steraly just. Like brothers at his grave they stood, And gioried in his common Name; Forsetting all things but his fame, Remembering only what was good!

'Twas gracefully and nobly done, A royal tribute to the free, Who, Prince, will long remember thee, Before the Grave of Washington!

An Incident of the Revolution-An Attempt to Polson General Washington-Discovery and Confusion of the Crimi-A surgeon in the American army relates this story:

A simple girl was instrumental in saving the life of Washington. I can speak of it now, it can do no harm. It was about the middle of June, 1776, and while the General was in New York, waiting the approach of the king's troops, that the girl came to Francis, her present husband, whom she considered in the light of a royalist, and informed him, as a secret she had overheard, that there was a plan in operation among the that there was a plan in operation among the government men to destroy the rebel leader—as she termed the Commander-in-chief— —as she termed the Commander-in-chief— by poison, which was to be pleutifully mingled with green peas, a favorite vegeta-ble of his, on the following day, at Richmond Hill, the head-quarters, where he was to dine. Francis went immediately to Wash-ington, and acquainted him with the danger that threatened him. The General having listened with the most careful attention, and

But now for your own safety, I charge you to return to your house, and let not a word of what you have related to me pass your lips; it would involve you in certain rain; and Heaven forbid that your life should be forfeited or endangered by your faith to me. I will take the necessary steps to prevent and at the same time discover, the instrument of this most wicked device."

"The next day, about two hours before dinner, he sent for his guard, told him of the plot, and requested that he would disguise himself as a female, and go to the kitchenthere to keep a strict watch on the peas until they should be served for the table. THE ART OF DINING IN RUSSIA . - Unique ocedure.-The Bussians claim to excel in Procedure.—The Bussians claim to excel in the art of dining. An Englishman being at Moscow they gave him a specimen. At three o'clock in the afternoon he was bathed, rubbed, kneaded, flogged all over with laurestina boughs, wrapped in linen, and served with quass and tampopo, which are cooling beverages, to allay the heat of the bath and flogging. At five o'clock, bread and butter, salt cucumbers, and native brandy and liquors were served to whet the appetite. At half-past five, dinner, to the music of a large unseen organ; first, open ausic of a large unseen organ; first, open potes of small trout, then, soup made of celpouts and small sturgeon—this is so rich that it looks like melted gold, and costs not quite as much; then, chicken cutlets, covered with a creamy paste of sliced apples, gherkins, plums and almonds; then, beef in slices, fat and lean, with an inconceivable and indescribable sauce; then, artichokes stuffed with munkrooms which had been melted in butter; then, a dumpling made of all kinds of meat, chopped up with eggs, oniors, honey, capers, potatoes, clives, peas, and lemons; then, a soup made of tea-leaves, rye flour, and salt cucumbers, and frozen at music of a large unseen organ; first, open rye flour, and salt encumbers, and frozen at that—a dish that sets a Russian epicure distracted, and no wonder; then 500 other things, and all sorts of preserves, and rich wines, topped off by yellow tea, worth $0 per pound, in a tumbler with no milk, but a slice of citro. slice of citron. MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

In Monetary affairs, yesterday, there was little change from the day provisus. The market continued easy, though the demand improved, with a supply of Currency in excess of the requirement. Eastern Exchange was steady, and Gold and New Orleans Sight-checks were scarce and in demand. Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin Notes were put up to 1½ discount, in consequence of an advance of Exchange in Chicago.

During the week ending last evening, though business improved in Third-street, it was more quiet than usual at this period of the year.
